Dear Parent,

Re: Parent Month November 2020

Theme: "Fathers Rise, Lead and be Wise"

As we embark on the month of November which is celebrated as "Parent Month", we commend ALL Parents for the magnificent job you, parents, have been doing, taking care of your children. This Parent Month, Hampton School extends special acknowledgement of All FATHERS; biological fathers, step- fathers or relatives and neighbours who honourably play the role of father.

We implore, however, ALL Parents (mothers, fathers, grandparents, guardians) to continue making a special effort to listen to your children as what they have to say is of utmost importance. Make every effort to set aside special time, from your busy schedules, to talk with and just share moments with your children; especially during these challenging times brought on by the COVID-19 Pandemic.

Of course, do not try to do everything for your child; but you should support them as they try to manage the new modalities of Distance Learning. Parenting can be a difficult task; however, please continue to be committed in ensuring the physical, mental, emotional and nutritional well-being of your child.

Parenting seems much harder now than before; as we come to terms with the new norm and creating new structure in the home as many of you, parents, have had to be working from home while making sure everyone in your remains safe in this pandemic.

As parents, some days it may feel like a blessing to be called parents and on other days, it may feel much like an overwhelming responsibility. Nevertheless, being a parent is a great honour and we want to remind you that you are shaping and moulding precious lives and, whether you believe it or not, your children will see you as their heroes; as long as you love, care for and guide them.

Your children may have different abilities than you thought they would. They may like different clothes than you thought they would. They may eat different foods than you thought they would. Some children like singing and dancing, some like sports, and some like reading and writing. However, they are children and our job is to invest in their strengths towards their best outcomes. Thank you for all of the time and effort you pour into your incredible children!

Thank you for pledging to help with home assignments. Thank you for advocating for the needs and interests of your children. Thank you for learning along with your children; in order to support them as they "attend school at home".

Fathers!! Thank you for sacrificing your time and your desires so that your child feels valued, protected and as though she has a special Presence and a Voice in Society. The greater your presence, the greater your involvement, the more stable and protected your child will feel. In an effort to honor all of you, our hardworking parents, Hampton School takes this opportunity in the month of November to celebrate you!

The Guidance Department will in short order announce a special Virtual Event to which you will be invited.

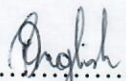

We truly appreciate you and all that you do. We are honoured to serve you and your child.

Happy Parent Month!

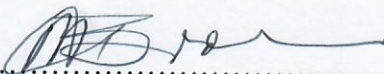

Faithfully,
